Mysuru link to Mangaluru Cooker-Bomb Blast

- Prime suspect rented a room at Lokanayakanagar with fake ID; Procured SIM card from Coimbatore
- Police teams cordon off area near Metagalli; search rented room for vital clues and forensic evidence

Mysuru, Nov. 20 (RK, MTY & BCT)- The autorickshaw blast where a pressure cooker was used in coastal Karnataka's Mangaluru yesterday has a Mysuru link. The prime suspect in the case had rented a room at Lokanayakanagar near Metagalli by providing a fake identity.

This morning, a team of City Police, City Crime Branch and teams from Bengaluru raided the rented accommodation and Police sources said that three cookers and several Improvised Explosive Device (IED)-making materials and tools have been recovered. The Police top brass are, however, tight-lipped about the materials recovered and other details.

Police teams from Mysuru city and Bengaluru seen in front of the house at Lokanayakanagar near Metagalli where the suspect had rented a room. Picture right shows cordoning-off of the area by the Police.

Karnataka Director General and Inspector General of Police (DG&IGP) Praveen Sood said that Police are probing along with Central agencies. It's confirmed now. "The blast is not accidental but an ACT OF TERROR with intention to cause serious damage. Karnataka State Police is probing deep into it along with Central agencies," he tweeted.

Blast in autorickshaw

The suspect boarded an autorickshaw that was coming from Mangaluru Railway Station to Naguri when the incident occurred yesterday. Police said that the main suspect is the passenger in the auto and he has sustained 50 percent burn injuries and is undergoing treatment at a hospital. The evidence collected from the explosion site has been sent to a forensic team for further investigation.

Cut-outs of Messi, Ronaldo, Neymar Jr. stand tall in Kodagu villages

Excitement building among fans at Gaddehalla and Kadanga as FIFA Qatar World Cup begins today

Kushalnagar, Nov. 20 (Akshay &BCT)- With the 2022 FIFA Qatar World Cup beginning today, the world is set again after a gap of four years to witness the biggest and the most celebrated football festival and the game fever has reached every nook and corner of the globe. The FIFA World Cup will kick off in Qatar tonight (9.30 pm) with 32 teams battling for the highest honour in the month-long international football.

While the football mania has taken the neighbouring Kerala by storm where the game is close to the hearts of the people with hundreds of clubs at small and remote villages, the hill station of Kodagu too is gaining attention with a group of football lovers from remote village of Gaddehalla erecting huge cut-outs of Lionel Messi, Cristiano Ronaldo and Neymar Jr. in the village, attracting attention.

The cut-outs of seven-time Ballon d'Or winner (annual football award presented by French news magazine France Football since 1956) Messi from Argentina, Portuguese legend Ronaldo and Brazil star Neymar Jr. have been erected at Gandhi Circle at Gaddehalla. While Neymar's cut-out is 15-ft, Ronaldo's cut-out stands tall with 30-ft in height and Messi's cut-out too stands tall with a height of 35 to 40 feet.

Cut-out at Kadanga too

Soon after youths of Gaddehalla near Suntikoppa erected the cut-outs of their idols, youths of Kadanga, another village in Kodagu erected a 30-ft cut-out of Ronaldo near the Kadanga Bus Stand Circle. Meanwhile, the Messi Fans Association in the village too are giving a final shape to the cut-out of Lionel Messi and it will be up when the World Cup begins. One more cut-out of Messi has been set up at Suntikoppa town.

Neymar Jr. will be playing in his third World Cup and Brazil is considered one of the favourites to win the tournament. This is his best chance to come out of the shadows of his two superstar peers — Messi and Ronaldo.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Even in this era of round-the-clock sporting activity, the football World Cup holds special allure. Very few competitions kindle such worldwide interest and stir passion quite like the showpiece event of the most popular sport. For footballing nerds, it is the biggest stage to look out for the latest tactical trends while for the romantics, it is an opportunity to reconnect with their favourite yesteryear stars' teams, such as Diego Maradona's Argentina, Pele's Brazil and Johan Cruyff's Netherlands. It will be no different when host Qatar and Ecuador set the ball rolling in the opening match of the 2022 edition this Sunday. What has changed however is the timing, with the World Cup moving away from the traditional summer slot to escape the West Asian country's searing heat. It will thus be held right in the middle of various club seasons, cutting short the time for practice and coaching lessons. But unlike at a tournament that comes at the fag end of the season, player fatigue is not expected to be a defining factor. Another point has been Qatar's record in upholding universal human rights and its worthiness as a host. But the debate will linger until such time as sports organisations realign their moral compass and break the nexus with big capital and authoritarian governments.

But once the action begins, the World Cup is expected to be a joyous celebration of the sport. The triumvirate of Lionel Messi, Cristiano Ronaldo and Neymar will attract most attention. For Messi, 35, and Ronaldo, 37, Qatar represents the last chance to secure the coveted title, and a golden swansong will be high in the minds of the Argentine and Portuguese fans.

Sound system at cinema theatres and cleanliness

Sir,

When all things are getting modernised, cinema theatres are not exceptions. There are plenty of theatres with modern facilities. But it is a question mark, whether all are maintained properly for the utilisation to the viewers.

They prohibit snacks brought by the viewers, just for the selling of snacks sold inside the theatres, with a huge price. After the show is over, they don't even find time to clean the wastes.

The digital system in the theatres, is also not maintained properly, especially the sound system is very horrible, they switch on the side speakers, but never check the decibels acceptable for the ears.

Recently I went to see a famous movie. The sound from the side speakers, enters not only our ears, but all other parts of the body also. Could feel the sound waves attacking and disturbing, making us unable to hear the conversation correctly, thus failing the total purpose understanding.

Hence, I request the theatre owners to make the sound system, a pleasant one and not horrible to children and elders. Also, let them have an eye of cleanliness, prior to commencement of every show.

Work begins to restore loose wall of Kodagu DC Office

Repair costs of expensive but shoddy retaining wall to be footed by project contractor

Madikeri, Nov. 20 (PS&BCT)- The 40-ft high and 140-metre wide retaining wall that was built to protect the Kodagu Deputy Commissioner's Office at Madikeri that gave way at many places due to continuous rains and shoddy works is being repaired again. The contractor, who originally executed the works, is repairing the wall at his own costs as mentioned in the tender.

The wall was constructed at a cost of Rs. 5 crore and the unsuccessful repair works that were carried out earlier cost Rs. 2.5 crore. In all, Rs. 7.5 crore has been spent on the retaining wall till now. In fact, the Kodagu District Administrative Office (DC Office) was built at a cost of Rs. 14.43 crore and it opened in 2014.

The Office is located on a steep gradient along the Madikeri-Mangaluru Road and the retaining wall construction began in June 2021. Due to continuous rains, the contractor had to stop work for a few months. After 75 percent of the works were completed, the problem of seepage occurred and the wall faced the threat of collapse.

Following rains, the Reinforced Earth Wall (RE Wall) dislocated and the entire structure hung precariously on the Madikeri-Mangaluru Road. As slabs bulged out posing a risk of collapse, traffic on the busy road (National Highway 275) was banned and alternative roads were provided.

Sand bags were laid next to the retaining wall up to a height of four metres towards the road to prevent collapse. Though the wall building technology was claimed by the contractor and the PWD engineers as advanced and safe, it has not worked in the district's weather where it rains for six months a year. The contractor had stated that Japanese technology was used to construct the wall.

Who has to take the blame?

Soon after the issue hit headlines, the Public Works Department (PWD) issued a notice to the construction company and the Delhi-based company that planned and provided technical knowledge for the retaining wall. The notice stipulated that the entire risk of the project would be on the construction company and not on the District Administration.

While the contractor has claimed that excessive rains are to be blamed for the mess, the Delhi-based company has clarified that the suggestions provided by its engineers were ignored by the contractor. A controversy erupted and Madikeri MLA M.P. Appachu Ranjan had written a letter to the PWD Secretary seeking black-listing of the contractor.

Excavating mud

Now that the rains have stopped in Kodagu, the contractor is repairing the retaining wall and its slanted portions. After the wall was built, the contractor had filled the space between the ground and the wall with loads of mud. This caused instability and due to the forceful flow of the rainwater seepages occurred due to the pressure created by underground water, said PWD engineers.

Now the dumped mud is being excavated with earth movers and being shifted to an alternative place and a private land is being used to store the excavated mud. After the mud is excavated, the wall will be repaired and given more strength to withstand pressure.

When the next phase of work on the wall is executed, technical experts from Bengaluru, officers from National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) and PWD engineers will inspect and the best solution will be implemented, said PWD engineers.

Fair price: Farmers to protest in front of CM's residence

Mysuru, Nov. 20 (MTY&DM)- Demanding a hike in FRP (Fair and Remunerative Price) for sugarcane, farmers will stage an indefinite stir in front of the residence of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai at Bengaluru from Nov. 22

Addressing a press meet at Jaladarshini Guest House here on Friday, State Sugarcane Growers Association President Kurubur Shantakumar said that several demonstrations were held earlier urging the authorities to address the problems of sugarcane growers, following which CM Bommai had assured of addressing the problems. Even the Sugar Minister had promised 'sweet news' on FRP to farmers by Nov.20. But since then, nothing susbstantial had taken place with no announcement on FRP hike, he said. As such there is no choice for sugarcane growers other than staging a stir in front of the CM's house, he noted.

Demanding a minimum FRP of Rs.3,500 per tonne of sugarcane, Shantakumar also maintained that the prolonged delay in sugarcane cutting had resulted in lesser yield and loss to the farmers. Urging the Sugar factories to cut down cane transportation costs in keeping with Government guidelines, he wanted the Government to ask the Sugar factories to implement its (Government) guidelines on cane crushing and farmer payments.

Association office-bearers P. Somashekar, Baradanapura Nagaraj, Venkatesh and Mahadevaswamy were present at the press meet.

Inaugurates 'Jilladhikarigala Nade Halli Kade' event at Kenchanahalli

Mysuru, Nov. 20 (BCT)- Revenue Minister R. Ashoka has said that in Mysuru district, over 3,060 farmers have received crop loss compensation of Rs. 2.55 crore and 5,640 people who lost houses following heavy rains have been provided a relief of Rs. 45 crore. In addition, the families of 3,644 COVID-19 victims have got a compensation of Rs. 27.35 crore.

The Minister was speaking during the 'Jilladhikarigala Nade Halli Kade' (village stay programme of Deputy Commissioners) organised at Kenchanahalli village in H.D. Kote yesterday. As part of the programme, monthly pensions, facilities for physically challenged and 'Pouthi Khata' campaign was held for the benefit of villagers. The Minister distributed benefits to the beneficiaries of various schemes. He also helped a physically challenged person wear an artificial limb.

"Earlier, there was a situation when the elderly citizens, helped by their relatives, had to make the rounds of Panchayat and Taluk Offices for old age pension. Now, the same pension is sanctioned within 72 hours and an exclusive Helpline has been set up where elders can call and complain about the delay in pension disbursement," he said.

Land conversion is being done in seven days by the DC if the families belonging to SC/STs want to construct houses and ownership right under 94-C is issued to the poor and economically weaker sections to build houses on Government land," he said.

'3,060 farmers received Rs. 2.55 crore crop loss compensation in Mysuru District'

As a matter of administration, Ashoka told the officials and the Police not to book criminal cases against farmers who cultivate crops on Government land. "There was a time when cases used to be filed against farmers if they were using Government land to grow crops. Now the situation has changed and amendments have been brought to the existing laws to prevent this," he said.

Deputy Commissioner Dr. K.V. Rajendra said that 7,000 people received benefits in the programme in H.D. Kote taluk. "Most of the grievances will be addressed during the DC's village stay and if grievances are pending, they would be addressed within two weeks," he said.

H.D. Kote MLA Anil Chikkamadu urged the Minister to declare 48 rehabilitated tribal settlements as revenue villages. "The taluk has 120 tribal settlements and 48 of them can be declared as revenue villages," he said.

Chikkamadu also urged the Minister to issue Title Deeds for the houses the tribals have constructed on Government land.

Gujarat industrialist accuses Chamarajanagar MLA of cheating

Kamlesh Kumar, Industrialist

Chamarajanagar, Nov. 20- A Gujarat-based industrialist has accused Chamarajanagar Congress MLA C. Puttarangashetty of cheating in a case of purchase of land for mining.

Gujarat industrialist Kamlesh Kumar Gopaldas Patel has alleged that the MLA has cheated him of Rs. 9 crore by failing to pay the amount in full even after purchase of the stone quarry land.

Giving an account of the matter at a press meet held at Chamarajanagar yesterday, Kamlesh Kumar said that he purchased a black stone quarry from one Hitendra Joshi in April, 2018 that covered an area of 4.33 acres coming under Survey Numbers 335/1, 336/4, 336/6 and 339/1 of Terakanambi village in Gundlupet taluk of Chamarajanagar district.

After purchasing the land, he ran a black stone quarry till 2021, when some local leaders began to trouble him.

"I went to Chamarajanagar MLA C. Puttarangashetty, who is also a former Minister, to seek his help for putting a stop to the troubles, when the MLA said that as I (Kamlesh) was an outsider, locals would not allow me to run the quarry.

"Then he advised me to sell off the land to him (Puttarangashetty) for a sum of Rs. 12.54 crore and also gave me Rs. 1 crore as advance, while promising that he would get the Sale Deed done after payment of the balance money in full in six months. But Puttarangashetty failed to pay me the balance money and even started black stone quarrying in the said area since February on a full-scale.

"When questioned about this, the MLA's son-in-law Ramachandra and his partner Shantakumar summoned me to an advocate's office and took the original sale agreement from me under the pretext of getting a photocopy. They failed to return me the original copy of the sale agreement and even threatened me.

"After some days, they gave me only Rs. 2.54 crore and again threatened me of dire consequences if I demanded payment of the balance money of Rs. 9 crore from them.

Thereafter I began to receive death threats, following which I lodged a complaint with the jurisdictional Terakanambi Police. Upset over this, the MLA's kin has lodged a counter complaint accusing me of caste abuse," Kamlesh said adding that the Police are not acting on his (Kamlesh) complaint.

As such, he has decided to lodge a complaint with the State and Union Governments against MLA Puttarangashetty for cheating him of Rs. 9 crore, he added.

Sundarraj, Ranganayaka and Hemanth were present at the press meet.

MLA Puttarangashetty reacts

Puttarangashetty

Reacting to the allegations, MLA Puttarangashetty acknowledged that Kamlesh Kumar Gopaldas Patel had purchased the 4.33 acre stone quarry land at Terakanambi from Hitendra Joshi.

"But I have purchased only the remaining part of the land belonging to Hitendra Joshi. I have paid a total of Rs. 3.54 crore to Kamlesh Kumar after entering into a sale agreement for a sum of Rs. 12.54 crore. I have started stone quarrying in the land that was purchased directly by me from Hitendra Joshi only since Friday and not since February as alleged. I am not running any quarry in the land that is mentioned in the sale agreement entered with Kamlesh Kumar. Also, one must understand that there can be no Sale Deed without any Khata. But Kamlesh does not have any Khata of his land, which is a problem. I am ready to pay the balance money once Kamlesh gets the Khata and subsequently gets the Sale Deed done. I wish to say that Kamlesh has himself cheated me of Rs. 3.54 crore by failing to get the Khata of his land and Sale Deed executed. It has come to be known that Kamlesh has cheated some others too like this. I will expose Kamlesh with full details and supporting documents at a press meet which I would call shortly," he said. The MLA further said that Kamlesh has lodged a Police complaint against his (Puttarangashetty) son-in-law and his partner in September and investigation would reveal the truth about Kamlesh's allegations.

J.B.S. Haldane: Distinguished yet Disillusioned !

Last weekend, I wrote about how I received a wrong book in response to my order from an online bookseller and how, instead of being a complete disappointment, it turned out to be an event with an unexpectedly interesting ending.

As I have already said, the wrong book that I received was a biography of the famous scientist J.B.S. Haldane, entitled 'A Dominant Character' by Samanth Srinivasan, a London based writer of Indian origin. Yes, I think mentioning his Indian origin is very necessary here today because we Indians are by now much used to revel in the sense of satisfaction and even accomplishment that the term connotes and brings us and conveys to others!

The book is not just highly informative but very readable and enjoyable too, with never a dull page or passage. And, the author who, as I have already credited as being a very capable and captivating writer, perhaps could not have chosen a better and more apt title for his book, considering the fact that after you read it, you simply cannot disagree that its protagonist would deserve any other phrase to describe his unique personality. But, at least to me, Haldane comes across as an extremely intelligent genius, who was naturally not bereft of the extreme eccentricity that is said to always accompany extreme intellect!

The man was a political party worker, fighting soldier, mathematician, statistician, chemist, physicist and biologist, all rolled into one. As a man wearing many hats in the field of biology, he dabbled in physiology, genetics, medicine and evolutionary studies and most surprisingly he excelled in everything he did and thus made a mark in the world of science, although the only degree he held was in mathematics alone.

Yes, with absolutely no academic qualifications in any of the biological sciences, he not only launched himself into biological research but also held very high and enviable academic positions. Thankfully, he was from a time and a place where the only attribute that mattered for a man to make a mark, was whether what he was talking, made sense or not!

Samanth Subramanian

There have been many such others, in the field of science, arts, philosophy and politics, who found their deserved and desired niches, without any matching academic qualifications and who yet managed to leave their marks on history, indelibly. Haldane had some very strong political views too because of which he had a very turbulent life, which finally resulted in him relinquishing his British citizenship and deciding to settle down in India.

So, in the year 1957 when he was sixty-five-years-old, he boarded an Air India flight and flew down from London to Calcutta, where he took up a professional assignment at the Indian Statistical Institute (ISI). The precipitating factor that nudged him to do this was his sense of outrage and utter disgust when the United Kingdom, France and Israel attacked Egypt in a joint bid to take control of the strategic Suez Canal, which he saw as a very wrong act. In an interview with The Times, just before departing from Britain, he said "I do not want to be a citizen here any longer, because Britain is a criminal State." And, in his official resignation letter, submitted to his University, he wrote, "I no longer want to be a subject of a State which has been found guilty of aggression by the overwhelming verdict of the human race. I believe that I shall find in India, opportunities for research and teaching in a country whose government, by its active work for peace, gives an example to the world." Very touching words indeed, for any Indian like me!

India had attracted him when he attended the Indian Science Congress in Calcutta in the year 1954 and toured the country, delivering thirty-five lectures in a span of just seven weeks. During this trip he became a close friend of P. C. Mahalanobis, the Director of the ISI, at whose house he had stayed too and upon whose invitation he agreed to join the institute as a scientist.

But restless and unaccommodating that he was, his honeymoon with the ISI too was very short lived, just like his first marriage to Charlotte Franken and he walked away from there, disappointed with his working relationship with his friend, the Director! He shifted base to Bhubaneshwar in Orissa on the invitation of Biju Patnaik, the Chief Minister there, who recognising his worth, offered to establish for him an institute of genetics and biochemistry.

However, his remaining life was too short for him to do anything worthwhile and during a visit to the US for a scientific seminar, he fell sick with profuse rectal bleeding. On his way back to India he stopped over at London where the reason for his problem was diagnosed as rectal cancer for which he underwent surgery there. But his cancer eluded a complete cure and he went into many complications to which he succumbed on 1st, December, 1964.

Even close to his death, his wry sense of humour did not leave him. When his second wife Helen Spurway, in the presence of a few of his students, handed him the letter written by his doctor from Calcutta, informing him about the incurability of his disease, he told her that she should have taken his pulse before and after he read it, to check how unperturbed he was! He said that while he was not afraid of exiting from this world, he was only scared of exiting from it with unkept promises. He had these words from the Bhagavadgita for his students who were standing around him:

Jaatasya hi dhruvo mrtyuh
Druvam janma mrtasya ca
Tasmad apariharya 'rthe
Na tvam socitum arhasi

(For one who has taken birth, death is certain, For one who is dead, birth is certain. Therefore, for what is inevitable, Do not grieve.)

Soon after the diagnosis of his ailment was made too, he wrote a poem about cancer which I shall reproduce here later. Haldane had willed that his body, after his death, should be used for scientific study and it was therefore shifted to the Rangaraya Medical College at Kakinada in the neighbouring State of Andhra Pradesh, for dissection and preservation of the organs. After that was done, the tiny bones from his ears were sent to the University of Chicago, while the rest of his skeleton was bleached and strung up for display in the anatomy museum, where it still stands to this day.

Till I myself entered medical college, as a first-year medical student, in the year 1975, I knew nothing about this unusual man of science. It is from this moment of the death of this colossus of science that a very important link got established between the man who dissected the body of Haldane to study and preserve it and who, a full decade later, walked into our classroom as our first teacher, for the very first class of our medical career.

This colossus was Dr. Vissa Ramachandra Rao, who soon after his retirement from service at the Rangaraya Medical College, joined the M. R. Medical College, Gulbarga, as the Professor and Head of the Department of Anatomy. Very quickly into my first year, he somehow developed a strong liking for me and the very important reason for this was perhaps the great interest we both had in photography, reading and the history of medicine.

Apart from teaching us Anatomy, he used to hold slide shows at his house and tell us all about his travels across the world and his long stint in Britain. It was during one of these sessions that he told us about how he had dissected and preserved the body of J.B.S. Haldane, the scientist. While he had shown us slides of his work and Haldane's strung-up skeleton, I could never find a single picture of it even on the internet and sadly in the short time that I had, to write this series of articles, I could not contact anyone at the Rangaraya Medical College, who could have helped me by sending me some pictures that I could have used here. Hopefully, I'll be able to visit the place some time and do it myself.

To go back a little and brush up the memory of my regular readers, I would like to mention here that way back in the year 2012, after I had gone to see my guru, Dr. V. R. R. Rao, in Salem, where he was living in retirement, as a nonagenarian, I had written about his role in preserving the mortal remains of Haldane, the scientist of international repute. For those who do not know what I am talking about, there's always time and occasion for it next week!

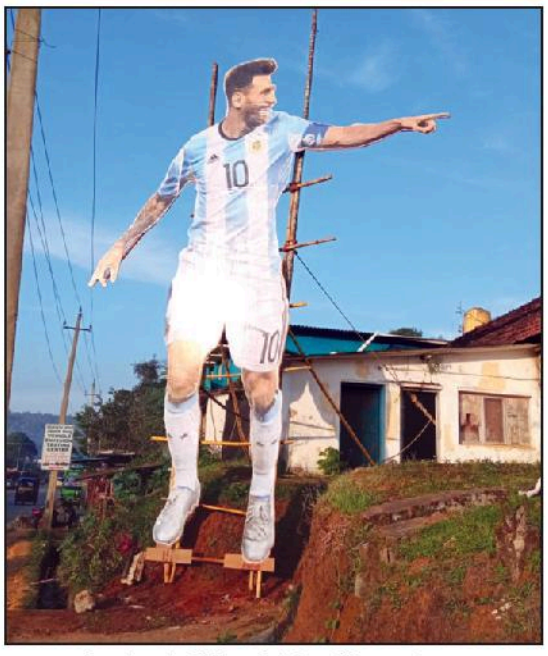
Cut-outs stand tall in Kodagu villages



A cut-out of Messi at Suntikoppa town.

"We, the members of CR7 Fans, decided to erect the cut-outs of the three legends due to the attention they are receiving. Moreover, there has been so much talk about Messi and Ronaldo who are likely playing in the World Cup for the last time. Their memories will be cherished for a long time and it is our way of honouring them," Zayid Abbas of Amity United Football Club and a die-hard fan of Ronaldo told Star of Mysore.

R-Day Tournament

Amity United Football Club was established seven years back and the club has 40 members between the age group of 15 to 35. "We are one among the 23 registered Football Clubs in Kodagu and apart from playing regularly in our own village and in the district against other clubs, we also travel to Kerala for tournaments," he added.

Of the seven years, the club members just played tournaments for two years and in the last five years, they have been organising tournaments for Republic Day. "In 2023, we are organising a three-day tournament on Jan. 24, 25 and 26 and it will be floodlit football. We are aiming big and we are working out plans," Zayid Abbas said.

60 trophies to their credit

Players from Amity United Football Club have won over 60 trophies in matches held at various places. "Unfortunately, we have received no encouragement either from the Government Sports Department, District Administration or the Sports Authority. We do not even have a proper ground to play. In fact, there is no football ground for that matter in Kodagu," he regretted.

"Kodagu has over 23 registered Football Clubs and in each club, there will be a couple of good players and we can easily have more than 100 best players who can compete in State or National level Tournaments. The best among the best can represent India internationally. It is stifling and painful to see the neglect. The focus seems to be only on cricket while other sports are brushed aside," he added.

Mangaluru Bomb Blast

The house in Lokanayakanagar at Metagalli near the Ring Road on Sanjeevini Main Road, 10th Cross, bearing number 434, has a passage that led to a small room which was rented out by the prime suspect four months back. The house owner, about 62-year-old Mangalamma, stays in the front portion and she has no knowledge about her tenant.

FAKE AADHAAR CARD

The prime suspect identified himself as 'Prem Raj Kanogi' and produced an Aadhaar Card for the same with Hubballi address while renting out the room. The Police have barricaded the entry and exit of the road and the teams are conducting intensive searches for clues and forensic data.

Neighbours and the locality residents are shocked to learn that the prime suspect had stayed near their homes. Mangalamma too is shocked to realise that her house was used by the suspect to stay for four months. As the Police team arrived at her house, she sat in a corner. Taking pity on her plight, the Police got her breakfast and coffee.

According to the Police, the suspect has not paid last month's rent and rarely mingled with his neighbours. The residents came to know about the suspect only when the Police teams and media personnel arrived in their locality this morning.

City Police Commissioner B. Ramesh was camping at the Metagalli Police Station and was collecting information. Sources said that more teams from Bengaluru will arrive at Metagalli now that the terror case has been handed over to the National Investigation Agency (NIA).

Suspect procured SIM card from Coimbatore

Mysuru/Mangaluru, Nov. 20 (Agencies)- Police sources said that the prime suspect who has identified himself as 'Prem Raj Kanogi' and has produced Aadhaar Card for the same with Hubballi address to rent a room in Mysuru, had procured a SIM card from Coimbatore under a false name.

"His mobile tower locations show that he had travelled across Tamil Nadu and his call logs are being examined to find his associates in Tamil Nadu," Police sources said.

Police sources said that the suspect, who has been injured in the blast, is not in a position to speak yet. "We are collecting all the information. Early indications into the probe suggest terrorist activity. We have recovered a burnt pressure cooker with batteries inside the autorickshaw. The cooker contained MAT pattern-related materials, four batteries and circuit-type wires," they told reporters.

"The passenger was carrying an Aadhaar Card which was later found to be of a man from Hubballi. The photo on the Aadhaar Card looked like his, but it's not his. This gives us a fair idea that he was planning to target something, but we are not sure about his target," Police said.

"We are not ruling out his connection to the recent Coimbatore blast. He is from Karnataka and had travelled outside the State in the last few months. He had recently travelled to Coimbatore and parts of Tamil Nadu. It was a low-intensity bomb. He was headed somewhere. Not sure what was his modus operandi," DG&IGP Praveen Sood said.

Why is Emotional Healing a necessity in one's life?

How can Rapid Transformational Therapy help?

Do you fear failures in life? Do you suffer from stress, anxiety? Do you lack confidence in yourself to be an achiever? Are you a hypochondriac? These and other questions that arise in our life's journey are answered here in this article.— Ed

By Suchita Sanjay
Clinical Hypnotherapist
& Mindset Coach, Rapid
Transformational Therapy

Did you know emotional healing is a Freedom Ticket if you feel stuck, struggling with fear of failure, stress, anxiety, lack of self-esteem, lack of self-worth, lack of self-love, lack of confidence, struggling severely from scarcity mindset and also for your overall health and well-being?

Studies have proven that any negative emotion or negative thought we pass to our body and allowing it to suppress creates a pain body or a diseased body. Our body is made up of a network of intelligence and it is always listening. It becomes very important to do an internal audit of our mind & body often.

It is observed, relatively women express their pains and emotions and heal, while majority of the men are told to be strong and not express their emotions as it might expose their weakness or hurt their ego. It is ok to express, heal and move on irrespective of gender. Being vulnerable is not a weakness, it is a strength too. Healing can be sought in safe places from qualified people in various fields. Seeking help from a close friend or relative who is not qualified may not help as this person may be a good listener but might not have the right knowledge or ability to analyse, direct and set you up for success.

Check the mind first as even our scriptures say, "Our mind is our best friend if we have control over it and a worst enemy if we do not have control over it. Our mind is like the king which runs our body too."

The most important that one has to check is to see if there is any emotional pain or negative emotion. If so, the questions we need to ask ourselves are:

1. Have I been able to identify the root cause of the emotional pain?

2. Have I healed from this situation?

3. Am I living the life I want or am I living by someone else's expectation of me?

4. Have I sought help to find solution and solace?

Many times the root cause of the pain goes unidentified. It is vital to understand how, where, when and why this pain was caused and also to heal from it. It is also important to understand if you are living the life you want or if you are living according to someone else's expectation of you. Many of them struggle with this issue, be it living by the expectations of the parents, spouse, the people around them. This not only leads to dissatisfaction, but also leads to emotional pain. All of which will ultimately lead to a pained body or a diseased body accompanied with emotional pain too. If one has to get over all of emotional turmoil, then seeking therapy is equally important. Seeking therapy is still a taboo in many places and cultures. Just like we go to a doctor to get treated for flu, it is equally important to treat our emotional pains by seeking therapy.

Often people either have the habit of suppressing emotional pains, or brushing it off under the carpet or try to cover it up by being busy and not acknowledging it or pose to be very strong. Some are suppressing by getting into unhealthy eating disorders or substance abuse to self. Emotional pains are supposed to be expressed and not swallowed. Suppression only leads to a snowball effect and it ultimately bombards one fine day with bigger issues.

About Rapid Transformational Therapy

Rapid Transformational Therapy (RTT) is a hybrid therapeutic approach which combines the best principles of Neuroscience like Neurolinguistic Programming, Psychotherapy, Hypnotherapy and other modalities of healing. In this method, the subconscious mind is accessed through hypnosis to identify when, where, how and why these unwanted thought patterns were acquired and while in the same state, the subconscious mind is healed, rewired and recoded with the most incredible and powerful life transforming belief system which ultimately helps in embracing success personally and professionally. Embracing the best version of yourself and unlocking your true potential is also what RTT helps with.

The command therapy in RTT used for wellness is also extremely effective and the results are phenomenal.

You may be wondering why is it important to access the subconscious mind through hypnosis.

Well, first thing to understand is that the subconscious mind has a Pandora box of all the events and feelings we have gone through in our life. When we are in hypnosis, the mind is in the alpha state or the meditative state, literally more relaxed to go to those specific situations which has caused the pain. Once this is identified, appropriate and powerful suggestions are given to change the meaning attached to those events and replace those thoughts with the most powerful positive suggestions. Different tools and modalities are used to heal the pain attached to the event.

A customised therapy recording lasting for 10-15 minutes is given, which has to be heard at least once for 21 days. The reason why the recording has to be listened for 21 days is because the mind takes 21 days to rewire itself to new thought patterns and rewire itself in the subconscious.

In simple terms, RTT helps one to understand the root cause of an issue and also create empowering new neural pathways in the mind while deleting and erasing the old unwanted thought patterns.

Any rewiring or recoding done in the hypnotic state or the subconscious state is lasting and powerful.

In a summary, RTT helps you to take control of how you want your mind and body, health and well-being to be and make you head towards success.

Marisa Peer, a world-renowned hypnotherapist, who has over three decades of experience in the field, is the pioneer of RTT. She is the Founder of The School of Rapid Transformational Therapy. She has successfully treated celebrities, the royalty, rock stars, players and many bigwigs of the business world.

RTT can be helpful to:

1. Overcome anxiety, stress, depression, panic attacks, fears, phobias, sleeplessness; 2. Boost in self-confidence, self-esteem, self-love, self-worthiness and motivation; 3. Guilt and relaxation of mind; 4. Overcome procrastination; 5. Issues related to weight — Weight reduction, eating problems, food/diet and exercise; 6. Achieving goals; 7. Overcome some addictions; 8. Career issues & money blocks; 9. Working with children; 10. Working on better relationships; 11. Some of the health issues.

This alternative approach is highly effective and many of them world over have experienced the benefit of it.

The most frequently asked questions about RTT:

Does it work?

Yes. Thousands of people have benefited from RTT. It is simple, proven and rapidly effective.

Will I be under your power during hypnosis?

No. You are in charge. You cannot be made to tell anything you do not feel comfortable talking about or do anything against your will.

Will I be asleep?

You don't actually go to sleep. You are fully aware and in control. It's a deep meditative state. Many of them experience a feeling of being deeply relaxed.

How will I feel during and after?

During hypnosis you are in your pure natural form. You will feel completely relaxed and comfortable. After the session, normally many of them feel completely relieved, liberated and feel a sense of understanding and freedom. You may continue to discover more about yourself.

When will I start to see change?

Immediate change: You feel a massive shift right away. A change in your physiology, thoughts and behaviours.

Gradual change: You see consistent positive shifts every day or over time. Sometimes you don't see the shifts right away and then one day you suddenly look back and see all of the things that are different in your life.

Each person is unique and responds differently. You may experience a combination of these various kinds of results. All are extremely positive, productive and powerful.

The result and success of the programme also depends on the commitment to the programme.

In fact, our elders used to always tell us think and speak good for yourself and for others as thoughts tend to materialise. They would remind us that Thatha Asthu Devathas (which means the Angels or Gods, who grant our wishes or support your thoughts) are always around and they are always ready to grant your wishes.

Our elders meant that every thing is energy. The feelings we feel inside are naturally projected outside in the form of energy and the universal energy is there to support it. After all, thoughts become things.

So, keeping our thoughts and vibrations in check is what will make the life we want.

WORD OF THE DAY

Bilious

Pronunciation: BILL-yus.
Meaning: Bilious has several meanings, including "angry or bad-tempered" and "sickeningly unpleasant to look at." Its earliest use describes things that are "of or relating to bile."
Origin: Bilious is one of several words whose origins trace to the old belief that four bodily humors (black bile, yellow bile, phlegm, and blood) control temperament. Just like phlegmatic ("of a slow and stolid phlegm-driven character"), melancholy ("experiencing dejection associated with black bile"), and sanguine ("of a cheerful, blood-based disposition"), bilious suggests a personality associated with an excess of one of the humors—in this case, yellow bile. Such a personality may also be described as unreasonable, peevish, or ill-tempered, as typified by Charlotte Brontë in her 1849 novel, Shirley: "These two men, of hard, bilious natures both, rarely came into contact but they chafed each other's moods."
Example: "Inserting a character inspired by Big Daddy Pollitt in Tennessee Williams's 'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof' into a scenario patched together from 3 William Faulkner works, Orson Welles so thoroughly dominates 'The Long, Hot Summer' as Will Varner, the bilious magnate of Mississippi small town, that the other actors struggle to make themselves known." — Scott Tobias

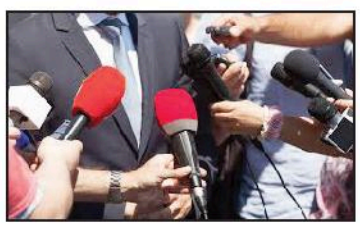
THE ODD WORD

Bakelite

Type of solid plastic.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Bad news travels fast



Meaning: The proverbial saying 'Bad news travels fast' can be taken literally. In a wider sense it is a comment on human nature being more interested in failure than success.
Origin: 'Bad news travels fast' is first found in print in the English author Thomas Kyd's tragedic play The Spanish Tragedy, which was written sometime between 1582 and 1592. It includes these lines:
If he lived, the news would soon be here.
Nay, evil news fly faster still than good. There's not a great deal more to say about this expression. Unlike many proverbs, it is merely a literal observation on life rather than the more commonplace uplifting metaphorical motto intended to spur us to greater morality or industry.

Life is either a daring adventure, or nothing at all. — Helen Keller
